Antiques thief gets lengthy sentence

40 charges. John Mark Tillmann of Fall River pleads guilty

The man found with hundreds of stolen historical artifacts in his Fall River home had plenty to say before being sentenced on 40 charges, but there was one key omission.

"I didn't hear you say you were sorry for what you had done, and I have to bear that in mind," said Nova Scotia Supreme Court Justice John D. Murphy after John Mark Tillmann's comments on Wednesday.

Tillmann was arrested in January after a traffic stop led RCMP to search his Guildwood Drive home, uncovering stolen antiques in every part of the house.

The 51-year-old pleaded guilty to 40 charges Wednesday, suggesting it was the poor conditions at the Burnside Jail that prompted "careful reflection" on his actions.

"I slept on the floor on a mattress ... under deplorable conditions," Tillmann told the court. "It was in this environment that I ... realized that I cannot, for that reason alone, if for no other reasons, continue on with this particular habit."

Murphy accepted a joint recommendation for nine years in prison, which will be reduced to just under eight years with credit for time served.

John Mark Tillman THE CANADIAN PRESS

"The ... offences show a total lack of respect for your fellow citizens and for the justice system and for our society," he told Tillmann, who has a lengthy criminal record. "The details ... indicate a planned, deliberate, prolonged activity motivated by selfishness and greed in the extreme."

Tillmann's house, two cars and $300,000 in his bank account will be turned over to the province as proceeds of crime. RUTH DAVENPORT/METRO

Ambulance equipment bag stolen with lethal drugs inside

Halifax Regional Police and Emergency Health Services were warning the public Wednesday after an ambulance equipment bag with potential lethal drugs inside was stolen.

Police say at 8:50 p.m. on Tuesday, two EHS paramedics were inside a station at 5 Hartlen Ave. in Spryfield when someone came in and stole the bag.

The red bag, which bears the EHS markings, contains drugs used to treat serious heart conditions and breathing problems, among other things. Anyone with information on the bag's whereabouts is asked to contact police or Crime Stoppers. METRO

Fall River man built 'altar to crime': Crown

Stolen antiquities.

Victims say impact of thefts lingers on in loss of trust, restricted access to valuable artifacts

The Crown says a man whose Fall River home was found packed with stolen historical artifacts accumulated the collection through "conscious deceit" over several years.

John Mark Tillmann, 51, pleaded guilty to 40 charges Wednesday related to the thousands of books, documents, paintings and other antiquities taken from local institutions and dealers.

"These offences reflect a man who attempted to enrich himself through crime," said Crown attorney Mark Heerema in court. "A man who has attempted to flourish through the trade and sale of stolen antiquities."

Although Tillmann's annual income for the last decade was below the poverty line, he paid cash to build his Guildwood Avenue home, worth more than $400,000, and had no mortgage. He owns a Porsche and a BMW, and at the time of his arrest, had about $300,000 in the bank. "Collectively, the altar that he has made to crime," said Heerema.

The stolen goods include a letter written by General James Wolfe and another by George Washington. A first-edition Origin of the Species by Charles Darwin was sold and has not been recovered.

There were stolen non-antiques, like an outboard motor taken from a Boy Scout camp, and a family heirloom chair that belonged to a 102-year-old man. The owners of some items haven't been located, and Tillmann told the court he wanted to help police find the rightful owners.

His lawyer said it's proof of Tillmann's genuine remorse.

"He's assured me that ... his criminal activity is now at a conclusion," said Mark Bailey, adding Tillmann had never discussed a motive for his actions.

Several victims said in impact statements they'd installed security systems or restricted access to valuable artifacts because of the theft.

"Access and enjoyment of historic sites and artifacts is based on an assumption and trust and respect for the site," Heerema quoted from Maritime Museum of the Atlantic curator Dan Conlin. "A violation of that trust undermines the spirit of public access."

Man pleads guilty to murdering wife

A 50-year-old man charged with killing his wife in Antigonish has pleaded guilty to second-degree murder.

Patrick Chareka was charged with first-degree murder in the death of his wife, Ottilia Chareka, and his trial was scheduled to start in Nova Scotia Supreme Court on Monday.

But Chareka was in court on Wednesday where he entered a guilty plea on a lesser charge of second-degree murder.

Dexter plays it cool while Baillie, McNeil square off

N.S. election. First formal TV debate features testy exchanges

Liberal Leader Stephen McNeil found that being the front-runner can make you the quarry in an election campaign as he became the target of attacks from both his opponents Wednesday night in the first formal televised leaders debate before voters cast their ballots Oct. 8.

At times, McNeil exchanged testy barbs with his Progressive Conservative counterpart, Jamie Baillie, while NDP Leader Darrell Dexter looked on, bemused.

Dexter became the first New Democrat to lead his party to victory in Atlantic Canada in 2009 and he used the debate to give a history lesson, telling voters his two challengers represent parties who left an economic mess that the NDP is trying to clean up.

The 90-minute debate televised by CBC centred on health care, energy, care for seniors, the future of schools faced with dwindling enrolment and what role the government should play in helping create jobs.

Baillie and McNeil often squared off and at one point the Tory leader took McNeil to task over his refusal to cut the harmonized sales tax until the province can record surpluses that make up for the revenue shortfall.

McNeil cast his position as reasonable, dismissing a projected surplus of $18.3 million forecast by the NDP government for this fiscal year as a fallacy.

"Every Nova Scotian listening here today knows that if they reduce the revenue coming into their house, they're going to have a problem meeting all of the commitments they've made," McNeil said.

"So if Mr. Baillie is going to reduce the revenue coming into the province of Nova Scotia, what hospital is he going to cut? What wait times are going to grow?"

"You can't have it both ways."

Baillie accused McNeil of "scaring" people into believing that they should be paying the highest taxes in the country, which prompted a curt reply from the Liberal leader in one of the more memorable moments of the debate.

"It's not scaring people. It's being honest, Jamie," McNeil snapped. "It's being upfront and truthful. Try it."

The exchange left Dexter shaking his head before he took issue with Liberal and Tory plans to slash the number of health boards in the province.

"They pretend that's going to save them some money," said Dexter, who took the casual approach by deciding against wearing a tie, standing apart from the other two party leaders in his open-neck shirt and sport coat.

"What we know, in fact, is that whenever you create these centralized super bureaucracies, they actually cost more money and not

No tie, no problems?

"I think in the end it's really clear that it provides the contrast that I actually do stand apart from my two colleagues."

only that, they throw health care into chaos.

"They have their own versions of kind of going back to the way things used to be done. We all lived through this too many times."

Dexter also picked up on that theme while discussing the province's energy future, saying it was the legacy of past Liberal and Tory governments that chained Nova Scotia to fossil fuels.

Baillie went after the Liberal plan to break Nova Scotia Power's monopoly.

"No one believes there are going to be three or four Nova Scotia Powers running around our province after the next election. There will be one," said Baillie. "You can't name one place in North America where this has actually worked."

He defended his plan to freeze power rates for five years as doable, despite concerns from critics who say it's not sustainable.

PCs promise to repeal contract-arbitration law

Nova Scotia's Progressive Conservative leader reiterated his promise to repeal the province's first contract-arbitration law, which imposes arbitrated settlements on first contracts for newly unionized workplaces.

Jamie Baillie says a Tory government would undo the law passed in 2011 because he believes it unfairly allows an arbitrator appointed by the province to force companies to accept wage proposals, even if they can't afford them.

which introduced the law, has said it brings stability to the labour bargaining process, adding that it is used by the federal government and six other provinces.

THE SWEET SUCCESS OF WEIGHT LOSS

When it comes to weight control, experts are increasingly putting the spotlight on sugar.

"In fact, mounting evidence points to controlling blood sugar as the key to successful weight loss" says Brenda Watson, naturopathic doctor and best-selling author.

Your blood sugar level is the amount of glucose from the food you eat that is circulating in your bloodstream. It provides energy or is stored for future use. All carbohydrates you eat, with the exception of fibre, are broken down by the body into glucose.

The body only requires 10 teaspoons of sugar per day to perform all its functions, but the average Canadian daily consumption is 26 teaspoons. This is no surprise when you consider that a half-cup of vanilla ice cream contains five teaspoons of sugar while one cup of cooked pasta contains eight.

For weight loss, Watson recommends a daily sugar consumption limit of six to eight teaspoons from all foods. Your body will draw on fat stores for

HOW MUCH SUGAR IS IN YOUR DIET?

Here is an easy equation for calculating how much sugar is in the food you eat. Nutrition Facts tables on packaged products provide carbohydrate and fibre amounts.
(CARBOHYDRATE GRAMS – FIBRE GRAMS) ÷ 5 = # OF TEASPOONS OF SUGAR

any extra energy it requires and that will lead to weight loss. There are lots of low sugar food options such as lean protein, healthy fats, and virtually all vegetables.

There are also scientifically-proven weight loss products that help balance blood sugar, Watson says. For example, green coffee bean extract gained notoriety when it was featured on Dr. Oz's TV show.

"While I don't believe you can buy weight loss in a bottle, there are certainly products that can help. Green coffee bean is one of them, but I am really excited about a new ingredient called Fraxipure, which is a natural extract from European ash seed. It decreases blood sugar levels, increases fat burning and protects the liver. I recommend Simply Trim because it is the only product to combine green coffee bean extract with this fat-blasting Fraxipure.

"The bottom line — if you balance your blood sugar you will lose weight. How sweet is that?"

Tracadie. Man gets 6 years for killing 2 teens while driving on drugs

A Nova Scotia man has been sentenced to six years in prison after being convicted of taking drugs and later crashing his car into another vehicle, killing two teenagers.

Thirty-two-year-old William Byron Fogarty of Antigonish was found guilty of two counts each of dangerous driving causing death and impaired driving by drugs causing death following an eight-day trial in Nova Scotia Supreme Court in June.

He was charged after the crash on Highway 4 in Tracadie in November 2011 that killed 17-year-old Nico Landry and 16-year-old Kory Mattie.

Blood tests at the time of the accident revealed Fogarty had several drugs in his system, including Valium and Methadone.

Judge Nick Scaravelli sentenced Fogarty on Wednesday to six years in prison on each of the impaired driving counts, and three years on each of the dangerous driving counts, with the sentences to be served concurrently.

Fogarty was given credit for the nearly eight months he's already spent in custody, bringing his prison time down to five years and 19 days.

Const. Pierre Bourdages of the Halifax Regional Police said a student had their finger "nearly severed" at the school, and was rushed to hospital by paramedics around noon Wednesday.

Doug Hadley, spokesperson for the Halifax Regional School Board, said the male Grade 11 student was in "production tech" class when he cut himself on a table saw.

"At this point it looks like they reached across the saw to grab a piece of wood, and in the process cut their index and middle finger on one of their hands," Hadley said.

It was "quite a serious cut," but Hadley said pressure was applied to the hand and he was treated by paramedics before being taken to hospital.

Al-Shabab says foreigners were a 'legitimate target'

Kenya attack. Somali Islamic extremist group claims they took 'every possible precaution' to separate Muslims from non-believers

Al-Shabab, the armed Somali Islamic extremist group that attacked a shopping mall in Kenya, said Wednesday that foreigners were a "legitimate target" and confirmed witness accounts that gunmen tried to let Muslims go free while killing or taking the others captive.

In an email exchange Wednesday with The Associated Press, al-Shabab said: "The Mujahideen carried out a meticulous vetting process at the mall and have taken every possible precaution to separate the Muslims from the Kuffar (disbelievers) before carrying out their attack."

According to published accounts, witnesses have said the gunmen rounded up people, asked questions about Islam and told the Muslims to leave the mall.

At least 18 foreigners were killed, including six Britons and citizens from Canada, France, Trinidad, the Netherlands, Australia, Peru, India, Ghana, South Africa and China, when the militants entered the Westgate Mall on Saturday, slaughtering men, women and children with assault rifles and grenades and taking people hostage. The current death toll is 67 and is likely to climb with uncounted bodies remaining in the rubble of the Nairobi mall.

Despite their efforts to spare Muslims, some of those killed were members of the faith. One man, Louis Bawa, whose wife Zahira and daughter Jennah were killed, told a London newspaper that al-Shabab was "using religion as an excuse to kill people."

Pakistan quake survivors struggle for food, shelter

Villagers sit under a tree near the rubble of destroyed homes following an earthquake in the remote district of Awaran, Pakistan, Wednesday.

ARSHAD BUTT/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Survivors built shelters with sticks and sheets Wednesday, a day after their mud houses were flattened in an earthquake that killed 285 people in southwestern Pakistan.

While waiting for help to reach remote villages, hungry people dug through the rubble to find food. And the country's poorest province struggled with a dearth of medical supplies, hospitals and other aid.

The quake flattened wide swaths of Awaran district, where it was centred, leaving much of the population homeless. Almost all of the 300 mud-brick homes in the village of Dalbadi were destroyed.

Noor Ahmad said he was working when the quake struck and rushed home to find his house levelled and his wife and son dead.

"I'm broken," he said. "I have lost my family."

At least 373 people were also injured, according to a statement from the National Disaster Management Authority, which gave the latest death toll.

Doctors in the village treated some of the injured, but due to a scarcity of medicine and staff, they were mostly seen comforting residents.

The remoteness of the area and the lack of infrastructure hampered relief efforts. Awaran district is one of the poorest in the country's most impoverished province.

Just getting to victims was challenging in a region with almost no roads where many people use four-wheel-drive vehicles and camels to traverse the rough terrain.

"We need more tents, more medicine and more food," said a spokesman for the provincial government, Jan Mohammad Bulaidi.

Created by catastrophe

Alongside the carnage of Pakistan's earthquake came a new creation: a small island of mud, stone and bubbling gas pushed forth from the seabed.

- Experts say the island was formed by the massive movement of the earth during the 7.7-magnitude quake that hit Pakistan's Baluchistan province.

Syria bombshell. Rebels split, call for Islamic law

Nearly a dozen of Syria's powerful rebel factions turned their backs on the West on Wednesday.

They broke with the main opposition group in exile and called for Islamic law in war-torn Syria.

The split deals a severe blow to the Western-backed coalition fighting President Bashar Assad and gives him fuel for his long-stated contention that his regime is battling Islamic extremists.

It's a momentous public rejection of the Turkey-based Syrian National Coalition — the political arm of the Free Syrian Army rebel group — that has long been accused of being a puppet of the West.

"If the groups involved stand by this statement, I think this could be a very big deal," said political analyst Aron Lund.

"It basically means that some of the biggest mainstream Islamist forces within the so-called FSA are breaking up with the political leadership appointed for them by the West and Gulf states, to cast their lot with more hard-line and anti-Western Islamists."

Outrage. Top French minister won't retract 'Roma go home' outburst

France's treatment of thousands of Roma migrants who have been expelled to Eastern Europe came under new scrutiny Wednesday after an explosive statement from France's top security official.

French Interior Minister Manuel Valls provoked outrage Tuesday by saying the Roma migrants had a "duty to return to their homeland."

And despite a wave of criticism, he refused to back down Wednesday.

Valls said the Roma had failed to integrate and France had no responsibility to them.

"We don't have the obligation to welcome these populations, we need to say it clearly and calmly," he said.

"It is not about stigmatizing a population, but facing the truth."

"The Roma have a duty to live in misery. That's how the comments of the interior minister should be translated," Dalhuisen said.

Many French blame the Roma for a rise in petty crime and an influx of street beggars.

Water everywhere ... except at home

Dry humour? It's the rainy season and there's flooding in Dakar, Senegal ... but there's no water running from the taps

Wednesday to cut short his visit to the United Nations General Assembly to return and address the problem.

As they waited on Yoff Beach for young men to fill plastic basins with water from wells dug in the sand, residents said Sall had better act fast.

The volunteer operators of the beach wells, made of stones and spare tires, said they were pumping out water for thousands of Dakar residents from 5 a.m. to midnight every day.

"Every day on the radio they say the water will be coming back soon, but the problem still isn't fixed," said 36-year-old Samb Gueye, who brought 10 water basins to the beach so her family would be able to cook, clean and bathe.

"I don't know what we'll do if this continues."

It's the rainy season in Senegal and the capital city, Dakar, is dealing with major flooding.

But...

For nearly two weeks, Dakar residents have bathed in the ocean, dug makeshift wells along the beach and waited in long lines for distribution trucks.

Water is no longer running from the taps.

Officials blame it all on faulty equipment.

Hold the front page. Security forces shutter Muslim newspaper office

Egyptian security forces on Wednesday shuttered the office of the newspaper of the Muslim Brotherhood's political party.

They confiscated furniture and documents, journalists from the Freedom and Justice daily said.

The journalists appealed to Egypt's press syndicate to take action against the closure in Cairo's Manial district, where the office is now sealed.

The closure comes two days after a court ordered the group outlawed and its assets seized.

Egypt's interim government, however, said Tuesday that it would not ban the group until the ruling is upheld by a higher tribunal.

Islam Tawfiq, an editor with the Freedom and Justice daily and a member of the Brotherhood, said the newspaper will continue to be published, and its edition for Thursday is ready for print.

He said the newspaper staff had evacuated the office in June, days before mass protests against Islamist President Mohammed Morsi, under threat of attack.

Crackdown

The shuttering of the newspaper appears to be part of an extensive crackdown on the Muslim Brotherhood since the ousting of President Mohammed Morsi after millions took to the street demanding his resignation.

- Fade to black. The Brotherhood's TV channel, Misr25, has been off the air and banned by a court order.

The staff has been working elsewhere, he said, and only furniture, electrical appliances, and some documents were confiscated from the office.

An order to ban the publication was issued a day after Morsi was ousted on July 4, he said.

The state-owned Al-Ahram printers continued to publish the paper on condition it reduce its pages by half and reduce circulation down to 10,000 from 100,000.

How to land a billionaire: Berlusconi's girl

Rome. Girlfriend of Italy's former PM has supported the politician through convictions for tax fraud and paid sex with a minor

She's unrelenting

"I sought him out, I courted him, I made him fall in love and I made him my boyfriend.... Practically I've done everything: He only has to say yes."

Francesca Pascale, Berlusconi's girlfriend

Here's one way to bag a billionaire: Silvio Berlusconi's 28-year-old girlfriend says she courted the 76-year-old former premier relentlessly until he finally surrendered.

Now she's just waiting for him to agree to marry her.

In an interview published Wednesday in the Italian edition of Vanity Fair, Francesca Pascale described two years of pain and jealousy as Berlusconi responded to the failure of his second marriage by throwing lavish "bunga bunga" parties for young women.

Pascale said she met "B," as she calls him, in 2006 while working for his political party, although she had him in her sights much earlier, when she was under 18.

"He completely rejected me," she said of her initial volley. "But mine is an unending courtship. It's still going on today."

Pascale professed her love for him in 2009. By then they were close, but she said they never spent time in private together because he was still married.

Finally her persistence paid off; she said Berlusconi gave her a diamond ring on Christmas 2011.

Bakersfield, Calif. Doctor saves choking diner's life with pen tracheotomy

A noted California doctor armed with just a pocket knife and a pen performed an emergency life-saving tracheotomy on a diner who was choking on a piece of meat.

Dr. Royce Johnson, Kern Medical Center's chief of infectious diseases, cleared the airway of Pauline Larwood at The Mark restaurant in Bakersfield, Calif., the Bakersfield Californian reported Tuesday.

Some of the nation's top doctors and other area leaders who were in town for a symposium on valley fever also were in the restaurant.

A Bakersfield assemblywoman, Shannon Grove, witnessed the incident that took place on Monday.

Grove said both her husband and Johnson tried to perform the Heimlich manoeuvre on Larwood.

"She had already started turning a real, like, blue, her fingers and her lips," Grove said.

The procedure

- Opening a direct airway through an incision in the trachea or windpipe
- Inserting a tube, which allows a person to breathe without the use of their nose or mouth

After the Heimlich failed, Grove said she watched in amazement as Larwood was laid back in a chair and Johnson used a friend's pocket knife to make an incision in her throat.

As several physicians gathered around Larwood, someone called for a pen. Johnson then broke it in half and inserted the hollow cylinder to use as a breathing tube.

The procedure was successful as Larwood was rushed to a hospital. Her son said Tuesday that Larwood was doing fine.

Calgary Stampede

Disqualification of champion steer upheld

A review has upheld the suspension of a championship steer at this year's Calgary Stampede for the use of banned substances.

Drug testing of the top two steers in the July 13 Steer Classic Competition revealed the presence of two separate drugs, ibuprofen and Flunixin, in the 2013 winner.

The animal was immediately disqualified and a report by Stampede's Agriculture Review Panel released Wednesday agreed with the ruling.

The two non-steroidal, anti-inflammatory drugs that were detected are prohibited in any quantity under event regulations.

The rules state all animals are to be presented free of violative drug residues because the competition is designated "terminal," meaning the champion steer enters the food system.

"This was a serious, yet simple issue," said Paul Rosenberg, vice-president of programming at the Stampede.

$11-million claim

Ousted CEO of AlarmForce files suit over dismissal

The recently ousted CEO of AlarmForce Industries has filed a wrongful-dismissal lawsuit against the home-security firm he founded 25 years ago.

Joel Matlin, who was at the company's helm since its inception in 1988 and often the voice and face of AlarmForce in ad campaigns, claims he was dismissed without cause or notice, which goes against the terms of his contract. He's also asking for punitive and aggravated damages because of the way the firing was handled.

"The bad-faith manner of termination above has caused Joel to suffer additional mental distress, damage to his reputation, and aggravated damages beyond his contractual damages for wrongful dismissal," the statement of claim says. The $11.3-million claim includes $1.3 million for wrongful dismissal and $10 million in damages.

None of the allegations in Matlin's suit have been proven in court and may be challenged by the company. AlarmForce was not immediately available for comment. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The International Council of Shopping Centers says malls around the world are beefing up private-security personnel or bringing in more off-duty police officers after last weekend's attack on an upscale mall in Nairobi. GETTY IMAGES FILE

Nairobi attack puts spotlight on security at shopping malls

Retail. Industry worries that increasing measures to keep shoppers safe will just scare them away

Quoted

"No one wants, when you go shopping, to be strip-searched, to be interviewed in a room by a security guard."

Simon Bennett, director of the Civil Safety and Security Unit at the University of Leicester in England

Some malls around the world have been scrambling to add security guards to look for suspicious people following a deadly attack on a shopping centre in Nairobi over the weekend. But for other malls, it's been business as usual.

The mixed reactions by malls across the globe isn't unusual in an industry whose security efforts vary from unarmed guards in most shopping centres in the U.S. to metal detectors and bag searches in places like Israel to main entrances that resemble airport security lines in India.

The disparity offers a glimpse at why any moves following the Nairobi incident to increase mall security in countries that have less strict procedures aren't likely to last: The industry continues to struggle with how to keep shoppers safe without scaring them away.

"No one wants, when you go shopping, to be strip-searched, to be interviewed in a room by a security guard," said Simon Bennett, director of the Civil Safety and Security Unit at the University of Leicester in England. "That might be acceptable in aviation, but it is not in commercial retail."

Security concerns come after al-Shabab militants, wielding grenades, took control of Westgate mall in Nairobi, Kenya.

In the U.S., the International Council of Shopping Centers, a trade group of shopping centres representing about one-third of retail space globally, said the U.S. government's Department of Homeland Security is reaching out to corporate security at all malls.

At the same time, the group said some of the malls in the U.S. and South Africa are beefing up private-security personnel, while others are bringing in more off-duty police officers.

Mall of America, the biggest U.S. mall, added extra uniformed security officers and stepped up other measures, but officials at the Bloomington, Minn.-based mall declined to elaborate. "We will ... remain vigilant as we always do in similar situations," said spokesman Dan Jasper. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A CURE FOR YOUR GOOGLE-EYES

Are you infatuated? Obsessed over another? Stuck on that powerful drug that is both more and less than love? If you're not sure, check for these key signs:

- Your special someone jumps to mind during songs on the radio, including jingles for toilet cleaner. ("He makes me flushed too!")
- Something as simple as a Coke bottle reminds you of her. (Or a Coke can; we're body-positive here.)
- They're the last thing you see when you fall asleep and the first thing you see when you wake up, because you're camped outside their window.

One item on this list might be OK, even healthy, but if you do all three then you're probably infatuated.

I'm a longtime expert. Even in Grade 3, I would tell my camp counsellor that I had a crush on her, then coyly explain that I only meant Orange Crush, while making moon eyes at her. (Keeping with the pop theme, I turned a shade of cream soda.)

HE SAYS

metronews.ca

But now, 200 years later, I've realized that infatuation is for kids. It's fun, but so is running around with my arms out making airplane noises. Just because I used to do it doesn't mean I still can, no matter how fun it was.

I had a date last week that went pretty well, but then I got an endorphin rush going, propping me up, up, up ... and had to stop myself on the way to Cloud 9 before I spiralled right out of control. It was a close call, but my survival means I can share these tips:

What's love got to do, got to do with it?: Dealing with infatuation

- Determine whether it's love, infatuation or lust. If it's love, you'll be in love. If it's infatuation, you'll Google advice on whether it's infatuation or love. If you can't tell if you have lust, I can't help you. See a doctor.
- Don't try to "accidentally" meet them. Though meet-cutes are a Hollywood staple, in real life, showing up unannounced at a construction site, airplane cockpit or reactor core is often more trouble than it's worth. If you must, send a Facebook wall message and ask if they're aware of any federal laws and statutes surrounding trespassing at their workplace. Finish with a wink and a smile!

• Remember a good relationship is a partnership. E.g. If you know the names of the children you're going to have with your new acquaintance/future spouse, then write a list and allow them to choose from several of your ideas. Watch their eyes widen as they come to appreciate what they've found in you.

• Bonus tip for infatuees: Occasionally somebody will be infatuated with you! If that happens, the other person may be very vulnerable and easy to manipulate. That's when you pounce — for a better world. Bite your bottom lip and whisper, "What I'd love is a man/woman who will lobby city hall for a curbside recycling program," or "It'd be so hot to see you and all your friends donate blood."

And those are my tips, gentle readers. I hope you found them helpful. If you need anything else from me, remember I'll be right here — on Cloud 5.

125 years marked with iconic images from mag's archives

National Geographic is celebrating its 125th anniversary with a special photography edition that features the most iconic images from the magazine's history. Pictured is a scene from Afghanistan in 2010: Pregnant Noor Nisa, 18, and her mother wait to be driven to hospital, where Noor would give birth to a baby girl. The issue features National Geographic's most famous photo — the piercing green eyes of Sharbat Gula, a 13-year-old Afghan girl in Pakistan's Nasir Bagh refugee camp, pictured on the right — which appeared on the magazine's June 1985 cover. The girl's identity was unknown for 17 years until she was tracked down in 2002. The image was originally placed in the reject pile before being rescued.

Emmet Cahill grew up immersed in music but singing with these guys has helped him mature as an artist

Hands up to anyone who, when told someone comes from a "musical family," immediately thinks of the von Trapp family.

Emmet Cahill, a member of the internationally renowned vocal group Celtic Thunder who play the Metro Centre Thursday night, can relate.

Well, swap out Austria with Ireland, and plop the plot into happier historical times, and you have Cahill. He was surrounded by classical music from his father's piano — a piano teacher by trade — and in the mellifluous vocals of his mother's chops. There you have it; life in the Cahill household.

"I've been involved in music as far back as I can remember," Cahill told me during a phone interview. "There was always music in the house."

It was really no surprise that on graduating high school, Cahill was awarded a scholarship to study Music Performance at the Royal Irish Academy of Music.

Hearing about auditions for the already world-famous Celtic Thunder group, Cahill took a quantum leap out of the world of classical music, in which he had been immersed since birth, and auditioned for the group in Dublin in April 2010.

"I didn't know a lot about the show, but went into the audition as an understudy and by November I was announced as the new member. I did the first recording with the guys in January 2011 — so it all happened for me over the course of a few months. I'm extremely glad it did."

Though breaking into the biz for Cahill happened lightning-fast, this classical convert had a lot of modern music catching up to do.

"Obviously, Irish music is a big part of it but we do some pop stuff, folk, rock, Broadway — for me it was broadening my horizons — it really opened my eyes open and taught a lot," he said.

"It also taught me how to deal with moving around on stage and get the crowd involved in the show — it's not just singing."

Cahill said he's excited to be bringing the whole package to Halifax for his third performance in the city. He points out that many people in our region have Irish roots, some going back many generations.

"It's great to hear," he said of the friendly and familiar voices.

The psychedelic rockers want you to see them as they are

Interview. Their self-titled third album is a statement of self identity: they're undefined and intangible

RICHARD PECKETT
Metro World News

MGMT's Andrew VanWyngarden and Ben Goldwasser never wanted to be famous. But quirky poppy zingers like Kids, Electric Feel and Time To Pretend from their debut 2007 album Oracular Spectacular made them household names, especially after being featured in movies such as 21, TV shows like The Voice and a Nokia ad. It was like their psychedelic private art house jamming session had been crashed by an accidental open Facebook invitation.

Rather than embrace the masses, the Brooklyn-based duo stoically continued with an ever more zany second album, Congratulations, in 2010. Indeed, the early days of face paint, hippy headwear and neon accents were discarded in a now forgotten fancy-dress box — and Kids was no longer on the set list.

This apparent fan neglect reads as anti-commercial label career suicide; MGMT's paradoxical style can seem frustratingly hipster but they, as self-indulgent as this sounds, are out to please

One more question

What do you dislike about pop culture?

- Quote. "I don't want to say that I dislike it. It has its place, but I think there's room for a little more subtlety in pop culture. It's really strange for us as a band because we've been accepted by mainstream culture kind of by accident. But we also draw so much of our inspiration from underground stuff that never reached the mainstream."

MGMT: forever being misunderstood. CONTRIBUTED themselves. The 30-year-old rockers are in an enviably privileged position with the backing of a major label (Columbia), free to satiate their musical whims — something they've taken into their self-titled third album MGMT.

You said that your music has been misunderstood in the past. Is this album about reestablishing your identity?

I feel like we're presenting ourselves in the way we'd like to be seen. I think it's a little strange to us that people want to impose a narrative on us as a band. We're not thinking too much about what our image is or what we'd like to be known for.

Your music is often described as paradoxical. Is it important for you to create something that's intangible or ineffable?

I think in a lot of ways music is always about the intangible. I think our album is music that a lot of people could get into, potentially. We're not trying to scare or be intentionally experimental, but also I don't think you want to be known only as a band who writes quirky pop songs.

You get a lot of criticism for alienating your fans but you've got nearly four million Facebook likes. Do you find it frustrating that critics and people keep harking back to the days of Time to Pretend and Kids?

It's frustrating; we've never intentionally alienated anybody.

New show painfully close to Fox's real world experiences

New show. Michael J. Fox makes his first full-time return to television since he left

What happens when you put Michael J. Fox and five Canadian reporters at a table? Hockey talk.

The Edmonton-born, Burnaby, B.C.-raised actor has lived almost two-thirds of his life in the United States, but while you can take the boy out of Canada, you can't take the Canadian out of the boy.

Though Fox's interview time is carefully limited, there's a full five minutes of chatter about the Leafs, Canucks and his beloved Bruins before everyone gets down to the reason Fox is at the summer network press tour — to promote The Michael J. Fox Show. The sitcom premieres Thursday on NBC and Global.

The series has been tailor-made for the actor. Fox stars as Mike Henry, a popular New York news anchor who gave up his job after being diagnosed with Parkinson's disease. Five years later, with his family's support, he decides to go back in front of the cameras. Betsy Brandt (Breaking Bad) plays wife Annie Henry, Wendell Pierce (Treme) his boss Harris

Tracy Pollan, left, Michael J. Fox, and Wendell Pierce star in The Michael J. Fox Show. ERIC LIEBOWITZ/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wanted him back

He was ready to go back, but only on his terms. For one, he wasn't going to leave New York, where all his guest appearances were shot. His series went into production months earlier than most, allowing the producers to build in weeks in between shooting to make things easier for their star.

- Doing things his way.

Fox briefly considered headlining a drama series like The Good Wife, but the long hours were a deal breaker. Besides, when he really thought about it, all he wanted to do was comedy. There was no question the networks wanted him back. NBC offered him a full 22-episode commitment, rare these days.

Green. Recurring characters include Anne Heche as a rival news anchor and TV veterans Candice Bergen and Charles Grodin as Mike's parents.

Fox teamed with executive producers Sam Laybourne (Cougar Town) and Will Gluck (Friends with Benefits) on the project.

"I really wanted to do a show about a guy with Parkinson's," Gluck jokes, "and a couple of people passed."

Gluck and the others see it as a family comedy first, but one absolutely based on Fox's own experiences dealing with Parkinson's. Henry is shown in the pilot scattering instead of serving scrambled eggs and misdialling 911, all played for laughs.

"Mike paid for those experiences," says Gluck, "so they're the intellectual property of Michael J. Fox."

Fox himself stepped away from his last regular series, Spin City, in 2000 after going public with his struggles with Parkinson's, first detected a decade earlier.

At the time of the revelation it seemed like a cruel twist of fate for the actor, who was beloved for his Back to the Future films as well as for his run in the '80s as young conservative Alex P. Keaton in Family Ties.

Fox came to terms with his situation and became a leading spokesperson for efforts to combat the disease. His Michael J. Fox Foundation has so far funded more than $350 million in research toward finding a cure.

Spearheading that drive and helping his wife of 25 years, actor Tracey Pollan, raise their four children became Fox's main focus for a decade. When medical advances helped to stabilize Fox's tremor symptoms, the itch to get back on TV began.

"I just thought, 'Why can't I?'" he says. "I mean, there's no reason not to do it."

Rehab was inevitable after troubled Efron started 2013 'like a junkie'

A new report in the National Enquirer details how Zac Efron kicked off 2013 — with troubling behaviour that likely led to his rehab stint in the spring. An anonymous source recounts watching the 25-year-old star pass out after a night of abusing prescription painkiller Oxycodone as well as alcohol, marijuana and Adderall at New York's Thompson Hotel on Jan. 3. "I was scared for him," the source says. "He was like a junkie. He wanted the drugs so bad. He went through a lot of pills even though it was clear he was entering a danger zone. My worst fear was that he had died from an overdose."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Could it be?! Drake and Chris Brown patch things up

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News in NYC

Make new friends, but keep the old. One is silver and the other beat up a lady one time. Chris Brown and Drake have squashed their beef and they may even become pals, according to Page Six. The pair apparently met up at the iHeartRadio Music Festival in Las Vegas this weekend, which Drake and his crew attended specifically to catch Brown's performance. "Drake came on Friday with his whole crew, and watched Chris' entire set," a source said. The happy reunion continued after the show: "They were backstage hugging and drinking," another source reports. Apparently, the meeting went so well that the pair are talking about collaboration on tracks, even though no one should ever want to be friends with Chris Brown or work with him or talk to him, so he eventually has to become a garbage man and live in the dump. Hopefully Drake is just pretending to be Chris's friend so it'll sting even more when he has to become a garbage man. Brown recently took time off from drinking fruity cocktails and hitting the beach in Hawaii to tag a wall with epithets like "F— police" alongside what is apparently a shout-out to the Bloods. Brown, he of sound life choices, signed his illegal street art with the words "Fruits Piru," which people who know more about the intricacies of urban gang life than we do speculate is a reference to the Fruit Town Piru gang, a subset of the scary-as-hell L.A. gang.

Bynes' lawyer wants her hitting-cop-car case held in mental health court

Amanda Bynes was set to resurface this week for a court appearance stemming from her 2012 arrest for hitting a police car with her rented BMW, but Bynes' lawyer wouldn't let her near the courthouse. Attorney Richard Hutton claims that Bynes doesn't currently have the mental capacity to fully comprehend the legal proceedings, asking the judge to refer the case to the mental health court, according to E! News. "The mental health court will examine Bynes and determine her competency to stand trial," he says. Bynes is currently under observation at the UCLA Medical Center, and a hearing is set for next week to determine if her parents' temporary conservatorship should be made permanent.

You can always rely on Milan for two things: exuding luxury, and being fashion month's halfway mark. The latter means we can move from tentative to confident in our breakdown of the trends for SS14. Despite the markedly different scenes across New York, London and Italy, discernible similarities have already emerged, so take note.

KIT GILBERT
Metro World News

Skin is in

If there's one thing Milan has over every other fashion capital, it's sex. It returned this season in the form of super sheer garments, peek-a-boo cut outs, belly-grazing necklines and hemlines your mother wouldn't approve of.

Gucci

things Milan told us about la mode

'90s minimalism reigns

Will the '90s ever get old? It appears not, as the era's minimalist esthetic is going nowhere. With everyone apparently singing from the same Calvin Klein sheet, it's slip dresses and spaghetti straps galore — with a strict colour palette of neutral shades.

Max Mara

The shirt dress is a bona-fide thing

Whoever first decided to wear her boyfriend's shirt as a dress must have been an audacious woman. Thankfully, we're no longer going to have to tug at those tails to stay decent, as the shirtdress is now a thing. It's popped up all over the fashion circuit and it's made its way to Milan via No. 21 and Tod's where floral, spangled embellishments and eyelets send this idea into more wearable territory.

No. 21

The graphic print party is still happening

No one quite owns the idea of print mixing like Prada and Marni, both of which showed stellar graphics that were as much about texture and colour as they were about print. The new designer, Stella Jean and Emilio Pucci, meanwhile, took the more traditional ethnic route, referencing African prints.

Prada

We've got tiers in our eyes

Things that have tiers include wedding cakes and football stadiums. Now you can add clothes to the list, as Simone Rocha, Meadham Kirchhoff and Herve Léger all added layer upon layer to their creations. And we're not talking ruffles either — these are hard-edged, angular strips of fabric. Our Milan favourite in this department is Fendi, which showed ombre cascades.

@rosereisman

If you're looking for a quick and delicious one pot meal this hits home.

The shrimp compliments the delicate sweet tomatoes and creamy goat cheese. Serve the dish with a side of green salad.

You can prepare the entire dish earlier in the day and bake at 400 F for five to eight minutes. It's also great at room temperature.

1. Preheat the oven to broil and spray an 8-inch baking dish with cooking oil. Preheat a non-stick grill pan or barbecue to medium-high.

2. Grill shrimp for approximately 4 minutes, turning halfway through the cooking time. Do not overcook. Place in the prepared baking dish.

Ingredients

- 1 1/2 lb peeled and deveined shrimp
- 3 cups of cherry tomatoes sliced in half
- 1/4 cup chopped cilantro or parsley
- 1 1/2 tsp crushed fresh garlic
- 1 tsp dried basil
- 1 tsp minced jalapeño peppers
- pinch salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 1/2 cup crumbled goat cheese
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 2 tsp freshly squeezed lemon juice
- 2 tbsp chopped cilantro or basil

3. Combine the tomatoes, cilantro, garlic, dried basil, jalapeño pepper, salt and pepper. Mix well and pour over the shrimp. Sprinkle with the goat cheese. Broil for 2 minutes or just until

A living room couched in style

A four-part series to help you get one of the most important spaces in the home looking great.

DESIGN CENTRE
Karl Lohnes
home@metronews.ca

In this four-week series, I'll serve up decor tips to get your living room looking fabulous in time for the holidays. Today I tackle the largest furniture piece in the room: the sofa.

Size

For those living in smaller homes, the challenge is to find the right sofa that fits seamlessly without taking over the space. Luckily, there's an easy way to measure the size of sofa your room can comfortably hold: Measure the width of your room — your sofa should be 2/3 of that measurement. For instance, if your room is 10 feet wide, the sofa length should be about six feet by six inches. This allows the sofa to fit nicely on the smaller wall or helps to divide a long room and still allow space on each end for side tables. By fitting the sofa to the shorter wall, you are guaranteed it fits on the longer wall as well.

Style

The style of sofa reflects many things; whether you like a modern or traditional decor, the comfort level you require and the colour of covering desired. A sofa with a rounded arm, skirted bottom and light-to-medium neutral fabric will look best in a traditional setting while a square-armed, exposed wood (or metal) leg and a very light or very dark covering will imply a modern feel. If you fall asleep watching TV on your sofa every night, then choose one with lower and deeper seating for ultimate comfort. If you use your sofa strictly for entertaining, then a higher seat and less depth is recommended in order to sit upright. As for coverings, there are many to choose from. A plain, neutral covering will add longevity to the look of your sofa. The covering choice (everything from linen to leather) is all about the durability you might require. A warm neutral colour works best in traditional settings and cooler tones in modern.

Cost

Consider the budget for decorating your living room; a sofa should eat up about 20 per cent of the budget. If you have not budgeted for your room's decor, then another way is to consider how long you will want your sofa; each year should cost about $250. For instance, if you plan on keeping a sofa for only three to five years then an $800 to 1,200 cost would be suitable. If you want it to last for 10 to 15 years then pay around $2,500 to $4,000. The fabric is the first thing that will get worn out, followed by the internal support/springs. These are the two things you should investigate and ask about; especially when purchasing a sofa you want to keep long term.

Next week: Part two: Choosing tables and lighting.

TAKING THE TIME TO DO THE JOB RIGHT

Craftsmanship always comes first for Patti Ford. For the last 17 years, the certified kitchen designer and owner of Patti's Kitchen and Bath Design in Halifax has incorporated the qualities of fine design and craftsmanship into every job she undertakes.

"We build everything here in our own shop," she says at her showroom on Lady Hammond Road. "Everything from modern to classic antique."

Patti's Kitchen and Bath works with a variety of woods, stains and paints, and hundreds of styles of fittings. Drawer boxes come in everything from standard melamine to finely crafted dovetail, depending on budget and taste.

"The kitchen is the best reno you can do in your home," she says. "You can enjoy it and increase the value of your home at the same time."

She starts the design process with each client by asking questions.

"I try to get to know the client, what they like, how they use their kitchen on a daily basis. Then I create a design to match their lifestyle."

When the client approves the design, the production team builds the cabinets at the company's in-house shop. Her in-house installers handle all installations.

"We stay small on purpose so that we can give each customer individual attention," she says. "We take the time to focus on each job and do it right."

Guard Kia Nurse added 13 points, four rebounds and three assists as Canada finished with a record of 4-0, good for first in Group A. Canada will play the second-place team from Group B in Friday's semi-finals.

Relentless Moose beat up on Bathurst

QMJHL. Three-goal third period helps propel the Herd to much-needed victory over Titan

ANDREW RANKIN

andrew.rankin@metronews.ca

The Halifax Mooseheads have their first home win of the season, though it didn't come easy.

But, in the end, the Herd were able to withstand a resilient Bathurst Titan squad for a 5-3 victory before 6,070 fans at the Metro Centre on Wednesday night.

"I loved how we stuck to the plan tonight," said Mooseheads captain Trey Lewis, who scored his first goal of the season, a short-handed marker. "You could tell with our neutral-zone forecheck and D-zone we were sticking to the game plan that (coach) Dom (Ducharme) laid out."

Though badly outshot, Bathurst was able to hang around all game long. After clawing their way back from a 2-0 hole to tie the contest early in the final frame, the Titan found the equalizer once more moments after Lewis scored to give the Herd a short-lived lead.

But the Mooseheads kept pressing.

Timo Meier gave the Herd a 4-3 lead with his first goal of the season and MacKenzie Weegar would put the contest out of reach.

"We needed that to seal the deal tonight," said Weegar. "I thought we definitely deserved to win; we outshot them by a good amount. We're coached not to sit back and to keep pushing no matter what the score is. That's what we did tonight."

The Mooseheads (2-3) are back in action against the Baie-Comeau Drakkar at the Metro Centre on Saturday at 7 p.m.

Lewis is hoping Wednesday's victory is the start of a new beginning for the Herd.

"We definitely want to turn things around here," said Lewis. "Now we have all our guys back in the lineup. We really want to turn the corner here and come together as a team."

Brent Andrews led the Mooseheads with a goal and two assists while Matt Murphy tallied once to round out the scoring for the Herd. Rafael Lafontaine replied with a pair of goals and Alexandros Soumakis also scored for Bathurst.

Home's a bit sweeter now

"To get our first home win of the season feels great. It's a relief and everybody in the dressing room is happy and excited for more."

Mooseheads defenceman MacKenzie Weegar

Struggling Huskies turn to QB Creighton

Jack Creighton takes over as the Huskies' No. 1 quarterback on Friday against St. Francis Xavier. JEFF HARPER/METRO

Jack Creighton is taking over the quarterback reins for the Saint Mary's Huskies.

Huskies head coach Perry Marchese made his decision to demote former No. 1 pivot Ben Rossong after his squad's disappointing 29-15 loss to the Mount Allison Mounties last Friday.

Creighton played much of the game, finishing 12-of-23 for 151 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions.

"Jack probably gave us a better chance to win and we're hoping he does this week too," said Marchese. "But we have two guys ready. We're going to get Ben involved as well. This is something I wanted at the beginning of the year, for both to be ready for game action. They're both capable kids; they're both smart."

The Huskies (1-2) will look to turn things around Friday when they host the 2-1 St. Francis Xavier X-Men at 7 p.m.

The Huskies have managed just 39 points in three games, for an average of 13 per contest.

But Marchese isn't placing most of the blame on his quarterbacks.

"Our problems on offence are with the whole unit; we're not going to put that on Ben. If we're in the same boat two weeks from now, we're going to be in real trouble," he said.

Fall of the Evil Empire. Yankees eliminated from post-season hunt, won't advance for first time since 2008

The New York Yankees failed to make the playoffs for only the second time in 19 years, getting mathematically eliminated Wednesday night during an 8-3 loss to the Tampa Bay Rays.

their magic number to three over Texas for clinching an AL wild-card berth.

Slowed by age and hobbled by injury, the Yankees (82-76) were chased with two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning when the Cleveland Indians completed a 7-2 win over the Chicago White Sox.

Despite baseball's highest opening-day payroll at $230 million, the Yankees failed to claim one of the 10 playoff berths.

"We didn't get to where we wanted to get," manager Joe Girardi said after it was over.

Since starting the latest run of success in 1995, New York had missed the playoffs only in 2008 — when the team bid goodbye to old Yankee Stadium. This time, the Yankees are saying goodbye to Mariano Rivera and Andy Pettitte, who are retiring when the season ends Sunday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NL Central. Young Cards on fire down the stretch

All of those young arms embraced this pennant race. The St. Louis Cardinals threw five rookies at the Washington Nationals and clinched a tie for their first NL Central title since 2009.

Shelby Miller earned his 15th win with relief help from Seth Maness, Kevin Siegrist, Carlos Martinez and Trevor Rosenthal in a 4-1 victory that spoiled Jordan Zimmermann's bid for his 20th win and wrapped up a three-game sweep on Wednesday.

All are 24 or younger, and all have been filling critical roles for a while now.

"We know what's at stake and what we need to do to get the job done, how many games we need to win," Miller said. "Hopefully, we can just win them all."

Miller (15-9) has been in the rotation all year and leads major-league rookies in wins after allowing a run in six-plus innings.

Yadier Molina had the go-ahead hit and Matt Adams homered for the Cardinals.

Ex-Charger Oliver commits suicide

Former San Diego Chargers safety Paul Oliver was found dead at his Atlanta-area home Tuesday night, and a medical examiner said Wednesday that the ex-player committed suicide.

Cobb County investigators said Oliver, 29, was found dead at his home in Marietta, near downtown Atlanta.

Police said Wednesday that Oliver died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Oliver played for the Chargers from 2007 to 2011. His best season was 2010, when he started eight times and had 62 tackles.

Oliver was a 2007 fourth-round supplemental draft pick from the University of Georgia after he was ruled academically ineligible his senior year.

Oliver was released by the New Orleans Saints after training camp in 2011 and returned to San Diego that season.

"It's sad to lose anyone, for that matter, but a guy that you played with — I can remember interactions with him like it was yesterday," said Chargers quarterback Philip Rivers.

NHL. Kunitz leads march of the Penguins in 5-1 win over Red Wings

Chris Kunitz had two goals and an assist to help the Pittsburgh Penguins beat the Detroit Red Wings 5-1 on Wednesday night in an exhibition game.

Jussi Jokinen, Pascal Dupuis and Craig Adams also scored for Pittsburgh. Sidney Crosby and Evgeni Malkin each had two assists, and Marc-Andre Fleury made 16 saves.

Drew Miller scored for Detroit, and Petr Mrazek stopped 32 shots.

Jokinen and Dupuis scored in the final five minutes of the first to give the Penguins a 2-0 lead. Adams made it 3-0 3:14 into the second period. Miller scored with 7:11 left in the middle period.

Kunitz's first goal came with 2:35 remaining in the second and he added a power-play goal 9:28 into the third.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Mars in Leo does wonders for your confidence but don't let that blind you to the realities of your money situation. Saturn in Scorpio warns it could cost you big time if you take a risk that is best avoided.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Disputes are inevitable but none of them are of any real importance, so don't get drawn into slanging matches with people whose main motivation seems to be envy.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Check the facts several times today. Neptune, planet of illusion, is strong at the moment, so your mind could easily play tricks on you.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Good news will come out of nowhere today, easing your fears and making you realize how fortunate you really are. Also, a friend or colleague will offer you the kind of advice that money cannot buy. Take it.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You may have to force yourself to be enthusiastic about what you have to do today but once you get going it won't be the chore you feared it would be. It could even surprise you and make you some extra money.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

A few days from now, you will get the chance to do something a bit out of the ordinary. In the meantime, treat yourself kindly and don't get involved with people who only ever waste your time.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

If you are happy with the way your life is going, that's great. If not, start making changes. The Sun in your sign means it's time to get your act in gear and get cracking on a scheme that is important to you.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

With the Sun linked to nebulous Neptune today, it's unlikely you will be thinking straight. Be wary of making plans you cannot easily get out of. Be wary of your feelings too. Can you trust them?

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Your confidence may be at an all-time high and all things may seem possible but don't be deceived: There is still a lot of hard work to be done before you come close to reaching your number one goal.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Life moves in cycles and the cycle you are on now mostly deals with your career and position in the wider world. Having said that, you can still find time for love — if you try.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

It's good that you are the forgiving sort but don't go too far and forgive people for crimes they should be punished for or you will get a reputation as a pushover.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

There's no point being uptight about situations that are beyond your control. That is the message of your solar chart today, so avoid confrontations you cannot win. SALLY BROMPTON
